THINK AGED MALTA MAN VICTIM TORTURE MURDER

HOSPITAL ATTENDANT DISCHARGED

Arrested and Fined for Beating Patient; Inquest Ended

Epilepsy, from which Samuel Harrison of Marine, Ill., patient at the Dixon state hospital, suffered four attacks between the hours of 2 and 5 o'clock Thursday morning, caused his death, a coroner's jury decided yesterday afternoon after hearing the testimony of several witnesses, members of the staff, attendants and patients at the institution. The jury attached no blame on any one individual who was charged in the testimony with having beaten the patient.

Leroy Murray, attendant on the ward in the epileptic section of the state institution was the last to take the witness stand yesterday afternoon and was questioned at some length. He gave his version of the affair as follows:

"Hamilton started running around the ward about 3 or 3:30. Before that I had found him face downward on the floor in an convulsion. He had sustained a cut on the forehead as he fell from his bed. Saunders, another patient, and I put him back in bed again, or rather we sat him up on the edge of the bed. At that time I saw no other cuts on his head. He sat there about five minutes, coming out of his attack and I stayed with him. I then took him to the wash room to wash the blood off his face which had come from the cut and put him back into his bed. Hamilton did not want to go into the wash room with me and was stubborn, but Saunders, who always helps with patients in convulsions, assisted me and after putting him in bed, covered him up.

He Became Unruly
"It was about 4 or 4:30 when Hamilton got up again and jumped over on one of the other patient's beds and sat down on the boy. I went to him to try to get him to go back to bed, but he was jumping on one bed and then another and the patients were getting up and going after him. I got close to him once and he kicked me in the side and knocked me about ten feet. I called for help and Hamilton ran into the utility room and then cut into the wash room, the other patients following him. I was afraid of them.

"I knew that Saunders and Robert Griffin, both patients, were with him in the wash room, several of the other patients having returned to their beds and quit down. I went to the desk to make out my report and heard blows being struck. I should judge there were eight or nine blows struck before I got to the wash room and there I saw Griffin with the broom stick beating Hamilton and Saunders was hitting him with a wet towel. More blows were struck before I was able to get the club away from Griffin and lock it up in the utility room. Blood was running down over Hamilton's face. He was down on the floor in the wash room. He had four or five seizures during the night.

Asked Many Questions
At this point in the testimony of the attendant, many questions were asked as to how the broom stick which was offered in evidence before the jury, got into the ward. Murray said that the windows were covered with a heavy wire screen and that the stick was used to raise the windows. He admitted that all such utensils belonged in the utility room which, according to orders, was to be kept locked, but said that it was open yesterday morning.

Murray was asked about using a two inch leather belt to strike patients, and admitted that he had struck Hamilton with the belt when he had his first convulsion early Thursday morning and refused to go (Continued on Page 2)

Deacon of Church Made Moonshine in Basement of Church

Bloomington, Ill., Aug. 20.—(AP)—William Siron, Lexington, is in the McLean county jail, following his arrest Wednesday night on a charge of possessing and selling intoxicating liquor. In addition to being deacon of a church, Siron is a high official in one of the Lexington fraternal organizations and also janitor of the public library.

Many stories are current concerning Siron's various misdemeanors other than the violation of the prohibition act. It is alleged he had been for some time making liquor in the church basement, but, following a quiz by the church officials, had promised to reform.

KILLED IN STREET FIGHT

Mexico City, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Bitter rivalry between political factions in congress has culminated in a pitched street battle with fatalities. Colonel Andres Barea and Deputy Marous Diaz were killed yesterday and Deputy Santiago Caparrosa was shot several times. Several bystanders were wounded.

Politicians have been disputing the results of the congressional election held in July and a guard of federal troops has been stationed in the chamber. The religious situation has been in no way connected with the strife.

Fighting started yesterday in the business section when a number of deputies began shooting at one another.

Was Stormy Petrel

The shooting began when former Governor Garrido and a party of friends encountered a group of political enemies. Colonel Garrido was instantly killed. Deputy Diaz died several hours later from his wounds. Deputy Caparrosa is at the point of death.

Garrido for a long time has been one of the stormy petrels in Mexican politics.

When congress convenes Sept. 1, it is expected bills to prevent congressmen from carrying pistols and also removing the special privilege of exemption from arrest will be offered.

Dixon Golfers Suffer Defeat by Princeton

The absence of six of the regular players on the Dixon Country Club team who are participating in the series of inter-city games, materially weakened Dixon's chances at Princeton yesterday afternoon, when the Princeton golfers won by a score of 30 to 7. Only 12 of the local golfers attended the match, several ladies making the trip. A very fine entertainment was provided for the Dixon party at the conclusion of the match, a feature of which was a banquet at the club house.

MAN WHO ENTICED GIRL TO RUN AWAY WITH HIM TAKEN TO OHIO BY AUTHORITIES

TO FIGHT BAIL FOR MEN HELD IN MURDER CASE

Revocation of Bond of Rev. Hall's Widow Will be Asked

Somerville, N. J., Aug. 20.—(AP)—The next legal battle in the Hall-Mills murder case will be on the question of bail for the woman and two men charged with the murder of the New Brunswick rector and his choir leader four years ago.

Counsel for Henry Carpenter and W. J. Stevens, in jail here awaiting action of the grand jury, have announced they will apply Monday for bail. Senator Simpson, the state's attorney, has said he will oppose bail for them and ask revocation of the $15,000 bond of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, the slain clergyman's widow, also accused of the murders.

Judge Cleary committed Stevens and Carpenter to jail yesterday after hearing more than sixty witnesses in four days.

Senator Simpson declined to say whether he would ask for a special grand jury.

DOUBT WEAPON FOUND

Philadelphia, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Doubt was entertained by the police today as to a pistol which had been turned over to them as possibly the one used in the Hall-Mills murders.

Wm. A. Winterer, chauffeur, said he found the pistol after a quarrel some party of men and women in a hotel some four years ago. The police noted discrepancy between the pistol and the bullets removed from Mrs. Mills' body.

Winterer volunteered his story. In an adjoining room at his hotel he heard men threatening to "fix" a weeping woman and talk of a gun.

WHITMAN SEES ENEMY'S WORK IN CONFESSION

Convict Charged Former Warden Gave Him Saws to Escape

Chicago, Aug. 20.—(AP)—John L. Whitman, former warden of the state penitentiary, charged that political enemies were responsible for the "confession" of Thomas Sullivan, alias "Red," that he had paid the warden $1500 to free him from the prison.

The latter testified before the grand jury in Joliet and Chicago concerning the escape of seven prisoners who killed Klein, resulting in recommendation of the Joliet grand jury that C. I. Jenkins, head of the state department of welfare, and Will Colvin, who recently resigned as head of the boards of paroles, should resign.

"I believe the charges of Sullivan are only a sequel to the Joliet scandal following the murder of Deputy Warden Peter Klein," said Whitman.

The latter testified before the grand jury in Joliet and Chicago concerning the escape of seven prisoners who killed Klein, resulting in recommendation of the Joliet grand jury that C. I. Jenkins, head of the state department of welfare, and Will Colvin, who recently resigned as head of the boards of paroles, should resign.

FEAR OF ATTACK ON MILWAUKEE TRAIN NEAR FREEPORT IS HELD UNFOUNDED BY THE AUTHORITIES

Freeport, Ill., Aug. 20.—(AP)—That fear of an attack by bandits on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad company's crack train, "The Southwest Limited," near here, last night was unfounded was the belief of the sheriff's office, after making an investigation today.

Shortly after the limited east-bound passed a tract of timberland a short distance from Freeport last night a passing freight engine was fired on, a bullet passing through the cab window and narrowly missing the engineer. The crew reported the incident and deputy sheriffs scoured the countryside but found no trace of bandits. It is believed boys who had been playing in the timberland fired the shot but not with the intention of endangering the train crew.

CLOUDBURST HITS MUSCATINE LAST NIGHT; BIG LOSS

Creek Out of Banks to the Floor of Pickle Works and Baking Shop

Muscatine, Iowa, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Considerable damage was done by a cloudburst which struck this vicinity last night. The Heinz branch suffered losses when Mad creek, a small stream, rose out of its banks, taking out two bridges within the city limits. The Cedar river, eight miles west, rose two and a half feet last night.

The storm began with a hard rain about 9:30 p. m. Later in the night the rain came down in torrents and Mad creek, the small stream which flows into the Mississippi river here, went out of its banks. The Barry Manufacturing company was forced to suspend work, one department having 72 inches of water over its floor. When the water went down, mud to a depth of about six inches was left on the floor.

Bridge Carried Out

At the Richards Sons baking plant the water rose to a level with the floor of boxcars standing near the plant. The wooden bridge over Mad creek at Ninth street went out and one bridge was destroyed and another rendered unsafe.

The H. J. Heinz Company plant here, one of the company's largest branches, which is now at the peak of its ketchup and soup making, was hit hard. Large pickling vats were torn loose by the force of the rampaging water and considerable other damage was done.

Street cars, housed in the barn of the Muscatine Lighting Company near the Heinz plant, had motors soaked so it was impossible to operate them. Telephone service was crippled and some damage done to cables as well as other lines.

Washouts were reported on the Wilton and Montezuma branches of the Rock Island railroad and it was not known this morning whether trains could be operated. The Cedar river, eight miles west, poured water to the depth of a foot over the roadway this side of the river and a large acreage of lowland just north of the road was covered. The total rainfall here last night was reported as 2.97 inches, the heaviest in a long period.

Superintendent I. O. O. F. Orphan's Home is Dead

Lincoln, Ill., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Dr. J. A. Lucas, 74, superintendent of the Illinois Old Fellows Orphan's Home here, died last night following an illness of four months. Dr. Lucas spent four weeks at Sulphur Springs, Mo., suffering from asthetic nerve trouble which developed into neuritis. Recently, he seemed to be recovering, and until four days ago, he continued to improve but had grown rapidly weaker during the past two days.

He is survived by his widow who has been matron of the home since Dr. Lucas became its superintendent, and three children.

"Twister" Struck City Early Today; Trees Blown Down

Dixon was visited by a storm of cyclonic proportions early this morning and for a time the twister wrecked havoc with trees in certain sections of the city. A big tree on Pearl avenue and Tenth street was snapped off at the ground and fell across the street, closing it to traffic. A block farther east another tree was snapped off. In many places branches were twisted off, but no serious damage was reported. A heavy rainfall accompanied the high winds. The city's street department was kept busy this forenoon clearing the streets and sidewalks of broken trees and limbs.

ROOSEVELT OUT IN SUPPORT OF OLD CONVENTION

Says Primary System Has Been Proven Unsatisfactory

New York, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Theodore Roosevelt estimates that election expenses in the United States amount to $40,000,000 in a presidential year and is convinced that the convention system has been proved superior to the primary system in nominating candidates.

"Orgies of expenditures" such as were revealed in the recent Pennsylvania and Illinois primaries, he told the New York republican club last night, are a "burning disgrace."

"A poor man has no chance in the primaries," he said.

"Not only has money flooded our pre-election party machinery but election costs are steadily mounting. In the United States in a presidential year $40,000,000 or more are spent in the elections. Even in an off year there is close to $10,000,000 spent."

He advocated control of a convention by a veto power resting with the voters.

"Money must not control government," he said.

FORTY FLORIDA REALTORS HAVE BEEN INDICTED

Charged With Using U. S. Mails to Defraud Patrons

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 20.—(AP)—More than forty officials and employees of the Florida Cities Finance Company and the Stanley Realty & Development company were under bond today following indictment yesterday on charges of using the mails to defraud in connection with sale and development of Florida real estate.

The Florida Cities Finance Company, headed by M. C. Tolbert, was the developer of the Fulbright-by-the-Sea subdivision near Miami, while the Stanley Realty & Development company promoted the Arcadia Gardens development near Arcadia, Fla.

Arthur Dunag of Chicago is president of the latter organization.

A number of counts were set forth in the indictments charging use of the mails to defraud.

Many British Miners Have Broken Away from Union

London, Aug. 20.—(AP)—The biggest breakaway of coal miners from the policy of the miners' federation which has occurred since the strike in the mines was called more than three months ago came last night when delegates representing 15,000 men and boys employed in the Bolsover company, in Nottinghamshire, accepted a proposal of the owners to resume work at their old wages for a seven and a half hour day. This constituted a compromise between the federation's insistence that the seven hour day must be maintained and the mine owners demand for an eight hour day.

GREAT THRONG ENJOYED FINE CONCERT BY BOYS BAND LAST EVENING; MUSICIANS PRAISED

The first free band concert given by the YMCA Boys Band was a huge success. Hundreds of people thronged the Court House lawn and side walks for several blocks. The boys never played better than last night and great credit is due to Joe Glavin, their summer leader and E. C. Senneff who leads the band during the winter months.

On all sides comments could be heard on the high class of music that was being played by the boys. Dixon is rightfully proud of this boys' organization and are also proud over the fact that they will represent Dixon at the Lee County Fair at Amboy next week.

FOUND WITH BROKEN HEAD IN HIS HOME

Thought Killed by Men Seeking Non-Existent Treasure

Murder by torture was the theory held by DeKalb authorities today following the death in St. Mary's hospital in that city Wednesday night of Martin J. Kirby, aged 82, who was found with a broken skull in his little cottage on the main street of Malta earlier in the evening.

Marks found on the aged man's body, which could hardly have been sustained in a fall, led deputies to the belief that the old man may have been slain by robbers after a vain attempt to force him by torture to reveal the existence of a treasure hoard which did not exist.

Two marks, each about a half inch deep and the size of a half dollar, were found on the outside of each knee. They appeared to have been made by a hammer blow. The temple wound, which broke the aged man's skull, appeared to have been made by the same instrument.

Scratches on Chest

On the old man's chest were deep scratches as if the unconscious body had been dragged across rough soil. His clothing was not soiled or scratched, but the body when found was fully dressed.

Kirby's unconscious body was found on the floor of his living room by two old cronies, Charles Pease and John Horder, of Malta, who missed him from his usual haunts and decided to investigate. They broke down the door of the house and on finding the dying man called DeKalb. An ambulance took Kirby to the DeKalb hospital where he died at 4:30 p. m.

Begin Investigation

Officers from Sycamore were immediately notified and an investigation begun into the circumstances under which Kirby might have met his death.

It was learned that last Saturday he told Pease and Horder that he was going to Ottawa to visit a son, George Kirby. He was to return in a day or so, he said.

The body, when found, was sprawled on the floor. His watch was in his pocket with some small change, and in an envelope on a dresser was $10, which the old man probably had set aside for his railroad fare to Ottawa.

Doors Locked

Both doors into the house were locked, but a window was unlocked, although it was closed.

At first it was presumed that Kirby had merely fallen to the floor after suffering a stroke. But the wounds on the chest and on the outside of the two knees were looked on by officers as having a more sinister meaning. The old man's back was unscarred.

Struck By Hammer

The three wounds on the head and knees were not ragged edged, but were distinct, as if a blunt instrument, probably a hammer, had been driven into the flesh and bone.

The wounds on the knees had already begun to show scabbing, and it is believed they were incurred possibly Saturday night or Sunday, and that the aged victim had been lying unconscious for several days in his little cottage.

The theory was advanced that he might have been struck by a car in front of his house and have dragged his wounded body inside. But his clothing was unsoiled by earth or sand. The scratches on the chest appeared to have been made (Continued on page 2)

NEWS AGENCIES OF WORLD IN PRAISE OF MELVILLE STONE, SAGE OF ASSOCIATED PRESS

Geneva, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Speakers at today's conference of representatives of news agencies under the auspices of the League of Nations, paid tribute to Melville E. Stone, for many years general manager of the Associated Press and now its counselor.

Elmer Roberts, representing the Associated Press, who introduced a resolution advocating international recognition of property rights in news described Mr. Stone's work in securing legal protection of news in the United States. He told how Mr. Stone, with the support of the directors and members of The Associated Press, won their cause and how the seal of approval was finally given by the supreme court.

Roy Howard, chairman of the board of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, said he believed Mr. Stone's contribution in establishing the property right in news was the outstanding single achievement in American journalism during the last generation.

ORNATE BUILDING RAISED AS TRIBUTE TO STATE'S HISTORY

A history, a tribute, a prophecy, the beautiful Pennsylvania building, standing almost at the center of the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition grounds is a fitting monument to the prowess and progress of the state.

It is built in an open square, facing the entrance, an invitation and a welcome to the visitors who, with Philadelphia, are celebrating the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

The building has been designed to show, almost at a glance, what this century and a half has meant to Pennsylvania. Beautifully executed panels in bas relief about the wall of this open court recount the early history of the state, the signing of the Declaration of Independence, its early struggles against foreign oppressors, its industries, resources, aspirations and arts. In the garden one sees its native trees and flowers blooming; and within the great corridor, in picture, in wonderfully colorful mural decorations and in actual exhibits, one may follow the story of Pennsylvania, from the days of William Penn to the present moment.

The building itself is the exponent of the newest in construction, in architecture and decoration. The outside is finished in a smooth stucco, which lends itself wonderfully to the colorful decorations that surmount the stately colonnades. Practically the entire interior is finished in celotex, a lumber manufactured from sugar cane waste. More than 60,000 feet of this material has been used to produce attractive interiors, and at the same time to give greater strength to the structure, and to keep the building at a comfortable temperature all the year round.

Beautiful mural decorations in almost unbelievable richness of color are the work of George Harding, one of Philadelphia's foremost mural painters. It was at his suggestion that this new building material celotex, was employed in this building, because it is one of the few media which does not require a costly finish upon which to work in murals.

Within the building are the booths and exhibits showing the arts, industries and resources of the state. Among the most interesting is a tablet, raised to the memory of Benjamin Franklin, who is revered as the founder of education through schools and through the press in Pennsylvania.

Another building is the Little Temple of Health, a tiny dome, with a glowing globe catching and reflecting the sunshine to show the healing and health bringing power of sunlight.

"Show me your God!" the doubter cries.

I point him out the smiling skies;
I show him all the woodland greens;
I show him peaceful sylvan scenes;
I show him winter snows and frost;
I show him waters tempest-tossed;
I show him hills rock-ribbed and strong;

I bid him hear the thrush's song;
I show him flowers in the close—
The lily, violet and rose;
I show him rivers, babbling streams;
I show him youthful hopes and dreams;

I show him stars, the moon, the sun;
I show him deeds of kindness done;
I show him joy, I show him care,
And still he holds his doubting air,
And faithless goes his way, for he
Is blind of soul, and cannot see!

TO BE REPRESENTED AT LEE COUNTY FAIR—

Interest in the formation of a permanent Home Bureau in Lee County continues to grow. All home makers and home keepers are urged to join forces and help the organizers in their district to secure the necessary 400 signatures in the county so that a permanent organization may be formed and a home advisor chosen by September. This would mean that work could be started in the fall and the county would receive the benefit of the 1400 dollars which would be the allotment to Lee county from the government through the Smith-Lever Act for the promotion of Home Economics Extension Work.

If you desire further information about Home Bureau work, Mrs. J. A. Long, Sublette, who is temporary president, will be pleased to answer any questions.

The organization will be presented at the Lee County Fair. Call at the Home Bureau tent on the grounds.

Menus for the Family

BY SISTER MARY.

BREAKFAST—Orange juice, cereal, thin cream, crisp broiled bacon, scrambled eggs, rye toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Creamed spinach with broiled tomatoes, graham bread, frozen fruit salad, toasted crackers, milk, tea.

DINNER—Breaded veal cutlets, scalloped potatoes and onions, buttered new beets, head lettuce with Russian dressing, tapioca cup, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

The dish suggested in the luncheon menu is most attractive. The spinach is served in its cream sauce surrounded by a ring of broiled tomatoes. Hard-cooked eggs can be put through a ricer and sprinkled over the top of the spinach for an additional bit of color. It doesn't take a minute longer to make this appetizing combination dish than it does to "dish up" each vegetable separately and it actually saves a dish when time for dish washing.

Not only are black velvet hats exceedingly smart for midsummer and early fall, but colored velvets—the deep reds and purples are also shown.

Scarfs for Summer.
For summer wear, there is some thing very cool and appropriate looking about the scarfs of georgette crepe that are pleated in fine knife pleats.

Linen is Liked.
Handkerchief linen returns to favor for fichus and berthas for afternoon and sport frocks.

Velvet Negligee.
For fall negligees, printed velvets combined with chiffon and with gold tissue cloth are exceedingly attractive.

Blue this Fall.
For fall, style authorities tell us blue will be exceedingly prominent, though at the present time red—the dark Chanel red and the claret shades, undoubtedly has the preference.

Mole to be Popular.
Mole, somewhat neglected as a fur recently, is mentioned most favorably as a fall trimming. It combines advantageously with the fashionable greens and reds of the moment.

AMUSEMENTS

CROWDS CONTINUE TO FILL THE STUDENBERGER TO HEAR "THE GREAT GATSBY"

Chicago—At the Studenberger Theater in Chicago Wm. A. Brady presented "The Great Gatsby" with James Rennie in the title role. "The Great Gatsby" is the highly praised dramatization by Owen Davis of F. Scott Fitzgerald's popular novel of the same name.

Mr. Brady obtains first place in the list of Chicago's new plays by opening this drama on the first day of the new theatrical year, August 11, which he has brought, intact, the entire cast of over 40 players, direct from the Ambassador Theater, New York, where "The Great Gatsby" enjoyed a run of over 6 months.

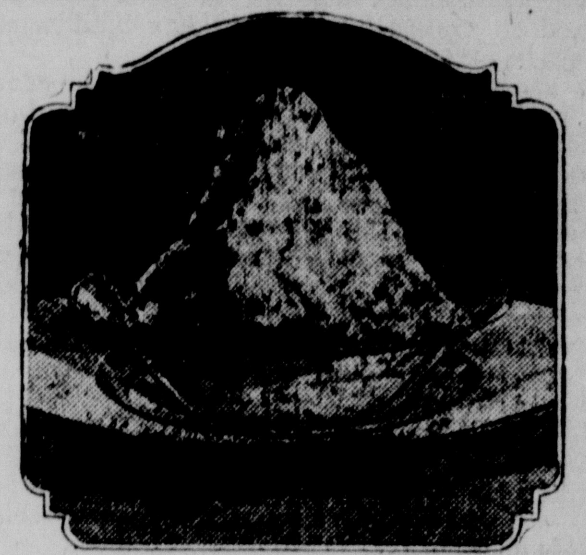

The question as to whether the stage version is a faithful adaptation of the book, since so many plays made from novels are not, has already been eloquently answered by the New York critics who were unanimous in stating that in "The Great Gatsby" Owen Davis, the most prolific writer for the stage in America, had done one of the finest pieces of work in his entire career. The story remains practically unchanged with the exception of one or two slight variations made necessary for dramatic unity. Otherwise Davis has followed so well the text of Fitzgerald's tale that the play contains even the exotic atmosphere created by Fitzgerald in painting his realistic pen picture of a phase of modern, high powered, Long Island society life.

"The Great Gatsby", starring James Rennie, is looked upon as a happy choice for a vehicle wherewith to start the new season on Sunday night. Matinees will be given on Wednesdays and Saturdays. The following scale of prices will prevail during the entire engagement. Nights Monday to Friday $1.00 to $2.50, Saturday and Sunday $1.00 to $3.00, Wednesday Matinee $1.00 to $2.00, Saturday Matinee $1.00 to $2.50 plus tax. You can order your seats by mail now.

IT'S THE MOVIES' MOVE.

The comical Will Rogers has signed for a movie with a firm in London. This is said to be the first step in a coming great battle for the movie supremacy of the world.

The British didn't enjoy "The Big Parade," by Laurence Stallings, the marine co-author of "What Price Glory?" Since there were no British in the picture, they said it gave the wrong impression of the war.

More and more nations are beginning to realize the importance of movies as an educational force, and as propaganda spreaders.

A protest comes from an educated Chinese, "The flood of cheap American movies being shown in Peking is distorting the imaginations of the masses. They picture your country as a land of robbers, train wreckers, a crazy conglomeration of plots and escapes."

Such is the powerful influence of the silver screen. An old saying might be revised to mean: Let me write the movie scenarios of the world and I care not who enters the World Court.

The United States leads in the production of movies, both as to quantity and quality. But let us hope British competition will become a spur urging upon us a more careful consideration of the power we wield.

Inaccuracies are misleading. American tourists visiting Honolulu are surprised to find natives do not play ukas and do hula hulas from dawn until dusk.

A conversation overheard at a bridge party gives a rather humorous light upon the far reaching results of movie inaccuracies.

A salad was being served. "Bananas," remarked Mrs. Blank, by way of small talk, "grow only one bunch to a tree."

"Not at the movie where I go," said Mrs. Smith. "They grow three or four bunches there, all over the world."

"Only one bunch at the Theatro," said Mrs. Blank.

THE RAILROAD'S GAIN.

In gauging the general business prosperity of the country, not a few experts have taken the railroads alone as the barometer, and all prognosticators of trade conditions consider the carriers as one of the big indicators.

In view of this, the traffic gains made by the roads during the first five months of this year are encouraging. These reports give the lie to the pessimists and bears, who last Christmas gazed into the crystal and foresaw a period of depression this year.

The total traffic for the five months, about 188 billion net ton miles, exceeded by more than 6 per cent that for the same period last year, and was nearly 9 per cent above that for the corresponding period in 1924.

If you want to be bearish, pick on other than railroad securities.

A STORY OF A GIRL OF TODAY

JUDY GETS A THRILL

"I am very glad your brother is coming," I said. "I think he should be here for the settlement."

"I am sure he thinks so, too, Judy," said Joan. "For I have never known him to come to town before. Of course, he must go to Mr. Elkins with us. I am now going to the train to meet him and take him directly to the house. Will you meet us there, dear?"

"But, Joan," I remonstrated, "if your brother is coming no one will want me, a comparative stranger, to butt in."

"I want you, dear Judy, and must have you. You are not a comparative stranger. You are my business manager and companion. By the way, will five thousand a year, with board and all traveling expenses, except your clothes, be all right?"

"I am afraid it will be too much, Joan. You know I haven't had any experience in business managing."

"My dear Judy, do you not know that already your services have been worth more than five thousand to me? What would I have done without you in the case of Barry and Lela," said Joan earnestly. "I must run now, dear. Be at Elkins' house a half past ten."

Before I could say any more, Joan rang off, and I knew I was in for it. I knew my presence at that private business conference, which concerned the settling up of the Meredith estate, would act upon Mr. Robinson as a red rag would upon a bull. He probably would metaphorically try to gore me to death.

I expected he would think I was a modern kind of Nemesis which followed him around to mentally torture him. And that is just what he did think, he told me later. But I was so concerned in another matter at that time that I had no thought for anything or anyone but myself.

I had to hurry with my dressing, and so went off without my breakfast. And taking a taxi I got to the gates of the wonderful suburban home of Josiah Elkins at the very moment that Joan drove up with her brother. I had just reached the pavement in front of the gates when I heard her call. Turning, I looked into the saddle, yet most fascinating eyes I have ever seen in a man's face.

Joan got out quickly and rushed over and pulled me toward the car.

"Judy, this is my brother," she exclaimed. "John, you will love Miss Dean as I do," she said.

The man sitting there in the car looked me straight in the eye and did not move. The sneering expression on his face I will never forget. It was though he was hating himself for taking an interest in me, and his mouth became a narrow, bitter line as he murmured my name. (Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc.)

TOMORROW—A Tense Encounter.

Rosenwald Thinks Smith Should Resign from Race

Chicago, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The Chicago Daily News today published a story quoting Julius Rosenwald as advocating the resignation of Colonel Frank L. Smith of the Illinois republican senatorial nomination or the selection of a protest candidate by republican voters. The Daily News said the statement of the mail order merchant was made before his departure for Paul Smith's to confer with President Coolidge.

The big contributions to the Smith campaign funds by public utilities chiefs, as disclosed before the senate investigating expenditures, were referred to by Mr. Rosenwald.

Nicaragua Troops Move to Suppress Rebellion

Washington, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The Nicaraguan government is mobilizing and dispatching troops "all over the country" to suppress revolutionary outbreaks, Lawrence Dennis, American charge at Managua, advised the state department today.

Mr. Dennis reported that revolutions had broken out apparently in Leon, Corinto and in bordering communities.

All telegraph wires have been cut and railway operations have come to a stop.

ILLINOIS CORN BELOW AVERAGE, REPORT STATES

Fair in Northern and Central Parts, But Poor in South

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Corn, grass, vegetable and fruit prospects in Illinois have been maintained or slightly improved in the last few weeks, except in the southern area, a joint report of the Illinois and Federal Departments of Agriculture said today.

"General rains," the report said, "have ranged from moderate to heavy in the central and northern area where soil moisture conditions are mostly favorable. Rainfall in the southern area has been uneven and a good soaking rain is needed for late crops and to improve soil conditions for plowing. Threshing ranges from practically completed in the southern area to just getting under way in the north. Recent rains have retarded threshing extensively and have caused slight deterioration of grain in the shock."

"Farm labor situation is satisfactory with the supply equal to the demand as a rule. A temporary labor shortage is reported in scattered localities. Generally speaking, all plant growth, as well as field work, will average 10 days to 2 weeks late. Cinch bugs have caused some local damage in the central and southern counties and continue more or less of a menace in these areas."

CORN BELOW AVERAGE.

"Illinois corn is below average, ranging from a fair crop in the northern and central areas or the important corn districts to very poor in the south. Corn is badly fired in the southern counties due to long drought. Recent rains will be beneficial to corn in the central and northern areas and to bottom land corn in the south. Upland corn in the southern area will be a very poor crop. Illinois corn is considered a moderate crop prospect at best with advancement of growth ranging from tassel to roasting ear stage. Very favorable corn weather is needed to insure the maturity of the large amount of late corn this season. Farm reserves are above average."

"Winter wheat yield is fully up to the Government's August 1st estimate of 18.5 bushels per acre. Threshing returns are up to average or better with few exceptions. Wheat threshing is about two-thirds completed. Quality of wheat threshed previous to recent rains is excellent."

"State oats crop has been disappointing with widely varying yields. Early oats are fair to good with late oats mostly a light crop due to rust and heat damage during filling period. In a general way, yields range from a fair average in the north to a very poor or a failure in the south. Oats threshing about 30 percent completed on August 15. Farm reserves above average."

Minor Grain Crops

"Barley, which is located largely in the northern counties, is reported up to average or better, as a rule."

"Rye yields vary with State yields slightly below average."

"Hay prospects continue below average though above earlier expectations with the exception of southern drought district.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

BY AHERNS

"Pastures range from fair to good in the central and northern areas to poor in the south where feeding has been necessary in some areas."

"Illinois tree fruit prospect continues well above average. Peaches are a large crop. Commercial apple and pear shipments are expected to run slightly larger than last year. Due to drought in the southern district the summer apple crop is below expectations but the prospect for fall and winter apple production and yield has been maintained and improved. The State grape crop is larger than usual."

"Illinois livestock are in good condition with numbers on farms comparing favorably with those of a year ago."

CARDS CLOSE ON HEELS OF LEAD- ING PITTSBURGH

But Four Points Separate Teams; Cubs
Trim Giants

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)
The St. Louis Cardinals today were only four points behind the Pirates, leading the National League.

Fourteen safe punches gave the Cardinals a 6 to 2 conquest over Brooklyn yesterday. It was Sherdel's sixth victory over the Dodgers in seven starts.

Pittsburgh could do no better than gain an even break with Philadelphia, losing the first 3 to 1 and taking the second 4 to 2.

Chicago returned to power in the struggle for fourth position beating the Giants, 2 to 1, on four safeties. Blake permitted 10 blows.

The Boston Red Sox won their sixth straight beating Chicago 1 to 0 when Hunsfield erred in the seventh after Jacobson's double.

The Philadelphia Athletics went into a tie with Cleveland for second place in the American league by trimming Detroit.

SIDELIGHTS

Alex Metzler, rookie outfielder from the Wichita, Texas, league club, showed Connie Mack that he can handle major league pitching by collecting three hits off the Indian flinger.

Earl Sheeley, first baseman of the White Sox, has been cracking the ball hard of late and getting credit for a lot of hits on which he used to be thrown out. Earl's secret rests in the treatment his bum ankle has been getting.

"Honeyboy" Heunnefeld's anxiety to complete a double play caused Tommy Thomas of the White Sox to lose one of the best games he ever pitched when the Red Sox shut out Chicago. With men on first and third, one out and an easy chance to retire the side, "Honeyboy" gummed up the works with a "hoot".

Greenfield of the Giants let Chicago down with four hits but was nosed out of the decision because two of the blows were doubles which followed a pass after two were out.

Hack Wilson, McGraw's castoff, played a star game against his former mates in their last appearance in Chicago. Hack did some sparkling fielding and worked Greenfield for a pass after two were out, thereby starting in a rally which gave the Cubs the game.

Albert Nixon was called upon as pinch hitter with a man on base in the tenth inning and he came through with a homer which gave the Phillies the first game of their twin bill.

One of Fighters to Have Training Camp at Sesqui
Philadelphia, Penn., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Frank Weiner, chairman of the Pennsylvania boxing commission, plans to have either Jack Dempsey or Gene Tunney train in the Sesqui-Centennial stadium for the heavyweight championship bout there Sept. 23.

Dempsey has received several offers of a camp from country clubs near Philadelphia and from Atlantic City.

Tex Rickard plans to establish headquarters in Philadelphia Monday.

He predicted that the attendance and the gate would be the greatest in the history of boxing.

The state boxing commission by a vote of 2 to 1 approved the proposed fight.

French Fighters Will be Seen in Ring this Evening
New York, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Fred Brettonnel of France, who claims the lightweight and welterweight championships of Europe, tonight meets the veteran Johnny Dundee of New York in a ten round clash at Ebbets field.

Andre Routis, another French claimant, engages the Wyoming featherweight Eddie Anderson for ten rounds and Jimmy Goodrich, former lightweight king, battles Sammy Vogel of New York, for eight.

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Mrs. Hazel H. Wightman of Boston, champion of the women tennis players of America 17 years ago has been eliminated in the 1926 tournament.

She lacks the speed of former days but her knowledge carried her through two hard sets with Mrs. Charlotte Chapin yesterday. The score was 6-4, 6-4.

Elizabeth Ryan, Mary Browne and Mrs. Molla Mallory have gone through eight matches with the loss of only 11 games among them.

TIGER FLOWERS RETAINS TITLE DEFEATING GREB

Given Decision in Return Match in New York Last Eve

New York, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Tiger Flowers, Atlanta negro, retaining midweight boxing champion of the world after a 15 round struggle with the man from whom he took the crown, Harry Greb of Pittsburgh.

Flowers made good his defense in Madison Square Garden last night before 16,000 persons. He was in better condition than he was the night he won the championship last February.

Greb was credited by newspapermen with capturing six of the 15 rounds while eight went to Flowers and one was even.

Flowers carried the attack to his opponent from the start but Greb countered with stiff blows to the head and several times rushed the champion to the ropes. Both went to the floor during the fight after wrestling about.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Cincinnati—All the Kelleys Dave Hancock has known well were good Kelleys—King, Joe and George and so Dave, a guest in court, got his friends the judge to release one Harry Kelley, who had been holding high balls.

Philadelphia—Sunday baseball is a good thing, in the opinion of Connie Mack. The crowd is a bit different from week days; it dresses better and does not reprove the players severely.

He gave his opinion to a judge when his club was seeking an injunction against interference with Sunday games.

New York—Friends of Rosmond Pinchoff who made her stage debut in "The Miracle" credit her with having lost all interest in acting. They say she is trying to select another career but no romance is involved in her decision to leave the stage after a remarkable success.

Mexican Boycott More Effective Than Thought

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—(AP)—The economic boycott in Mexico is more effective than at first believed, especially in the central states, the commerce department was advised today in a cablegram from Acting Commercial Attache Wythe at Mexico City.

Guadalajara, the dispatch said, appeared to be one of the important cities most affected, reports declaring the majority of automobiles there had been withdrawn from use and department store sales curtailed 80 per cent.

Business in Torreon was improving, the dispatch added, due to a larger cotton crop; shoe factories in Mexico City were active although leather orders had been reduced and in many orders in practically all lines of business had been cancelled. The petroleum and mineral industries were reported unaffected.

Good Thoughts for Good People

Loving-kindness, God-bestowed, begets a thoughtful, useful, happy, progressive daily life, a consciousness free from forebodings of poverty, ill health, or failure, for wisdom and understanding, those sponsors of happiness, point to divine Mind. God, as the unfailing and bountiful source of health, or right ideas, and of perfect qualities.

The Christian Science Monitor.

There is no beautifier of complexion or form or behavior like the wish to scatter joy, and not pain, around us.

But God gives patience, Love learns strength.

And faith remembers promise.

And Hope itself can smile at length.

On other hopes gone from us.

Elizabeth Barrett Browning.

These are the gifts I ask of thee, Spirit serene—

Strength for the daily task;

Courage to face the road;

Good cheer to help me bear the travel-er's load;

An inward joy in all things heard and seen.

Henry VanDyke

He who waits to do a great deal of good at once will never do any.

Dr. Johnson.

And who is he that will harm you, if ye be followers of that which is good? But and if ye suffer for righteousness' sake, happy are ye: and be not afraid of their terror, neither be troubled. But sanctify the Lord God in your hearts.

I Peter.

Quaker Oats "stands by" you through the morning

That's why doctors urge it to start every day

TO feel right through the morning you must have well-balanced, complete food at breakfast. At most other meals—that is, at luncheon and at dinner—you usually get that kind of food but rarely at breakfast.

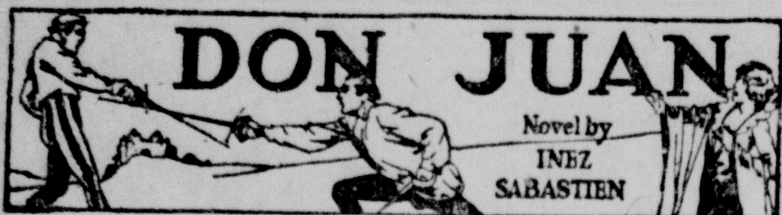

Thus Quaker Oats, containing 16% protein, food's great tissue builder, 58% carbohydrate, its great energy element, plus all-important vitamins and the "bulk" that makes laxatives seldom needed, is the dietetic urge of the world today.

It is food that "stands by" you through the morning. Food that should start every breakfast you eat.

Don't deny yourself the natural stimulation this rich food offers.

Get Quaker Oats today. Grocers have two kinds: Quick Quaker, which cooks in 3 to 5 minutes, and Quaker Oats.

"Don Juan," screen play by Basil Meredyth, starring John Barrymore, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS
Don Juan's disillusioned father warns him: "Destroy women or they will destroy you; take their love scornfully—and forget!" This advice has made Juan the greatest lover of all time. But his cynicism is suddenly checked by the disarming innocence of Madonna-like Adriana Varanese. Loving her madly, he vows to lead a clean life. The affair is dangerous because infamous Lucretia Borgia loves Juan, while Donati, her kinsman, covets Adriana. The Borgias institute a reign of terror in Rome against the lovers—and capture Adriana and her father, Duke Varanese.

Donati was not smiling. He was looking at Adriana, and just coarsened his face, making him even more repulsive than he was ordinarily. From time to time he licked his thick lips with his tongue, and his hands clenched and unclenched restlessly, as if they itched to touch her delicate body.

Adriana shuddered as his glance swept over her like some slimy, unclean thing. She clung to her father, cold with fear. The torches borne by some of the Borgia retainers threw an ominous red glare over the stone walls of the Varanese palace. On either side of the steps great steel rings had been let into the stones, one hanging from the mouth of each of the huge dragons wrought of metal that were fastened to the stonework.

Ordinarily arriving guests had long glance at Donati, as if a new idea had just then come into his mind.

"There is this chance of a pardon for you," he said slowly. "My kinsman, the Count Donati, desires your daughter in marriage. Give her to him and become our loyal follower."

"No—no!" cried Adriana, sick with horror at the mere thought of such a thing.

Her father went white to the lips.

Cesare's eyes narrowed, and for a moment his sneering smile was lost, as his face tightened and grew grim. Then he smiled again, and at sight of it a little serving maid who cowered behind Adriana crossed herself and muttered a prayer. For Cesare Borgia's smile boded evil for those who called it forth.

Donati's hand flew to the hilt of his sword. Cesare turned to his soldiers and gave an order curtly, an order that was hardly needed, so plain was it that the Borgia retainers had expected it all along. They leaped forward, the red torchlight playing over the metal of their accoutrements with a sinister glare. They seized the Duke, though Adriana clung to him, crying out wildly in protest. Roughly they shoved her aside, and dragged Varanese down into the courtyard.

Suddenly realizing what this meant, she ran after him, crying "I will follow!" She was frantic with fear for him; in that moment no sacrifice that could be paid with her own body meant anything to her, if it could buy his safety.

She sped to his side and threw her arms about his neck. Cesare watched her, smiling; Donati watched also, complacently. For a moment he had feared that the girl would escape him, although Cesare had promised him that he should have her, as soon as the their horses tethered to these rings, and torches were thrust into the dragons' heads, to light the guests' arrival. Tonight purposely no torches had been so placed, and one of the Borgia henchmen, tiring of the weight of his torch, thrust it through the dragon's head nearest him.

To Varanese that act was symbolic. It was as if the Borgias had already taken over his palace and added his fortune to their own. Would they take also the lovely, slender girl who clung to him in terror? What would be her fate? He knew that he himself was facing certain death. Cesare Borgia was a relentless enemy, and there were many old scores between them that would now be settled. For himself Varanese did not greatly mind dying. Life had not been kind to him. It had given him the treasures of the world, but it had taken his young wife from him when Adriana was born. And since then the girl's happiness had been the only thing that mattered to him.

The thought of leaving her alone in the hands of the Borgias was intolerable. Yet only a miracle could save him from death, and her from a far worse fate.

Yet he faced Cesare Borgia proudly. No fate, however bitter, could make him flinch before this complacent, sneering enemy. Cesare came slowly forward, Donati at his elbow, his eyes still on Adriana. He liked her fear of him, forcing her to accede to his wishes would be pleasant indeed.

Cesare spoke curtly, his words cutting the air like sharp, small knives.

"You are under arrest," he said to Varanese. "And as a friend of the Orsini you already know your fate."

Adriana cried out in terror; her father, his eyes still looking straight into Cesare's, patting her reassuringly on the shoulder.

Cesare made as if to turn away, then, turning back, looked at the girl thoughtfully, then cast a side-

Duke was dead. He preferred taking her this way, however; with a girl of her type it was more satisfactory.

Cesare nodded to him, malice and amusement flickering in his eyes. Donati nodded back, admitting that his powerful cousin had been right in laying the plans that were being carried out. They watched without comment as Adriana, clinging to her father, sobbed out the words that she knew sounded the death knell for her own happiness.

"I will do it," she was saying, pressing her pale cheek to his. "I will marry him!"

"That I cannot permit," Varanese told her, trying to loosen the grasp of her slender arms. "Never while I live!"

"What chance have we?" she cried. "If I refuse it means death for you—and a worse fate for me. This is the only thing to do—it must be done!"

Varanese's face changed suddenly; he looked like a very old man, whose heart's blood had suddenly been sapped. Yet there was something valiant about him as he turned courageously to face Cesare, who sat looking down at him mockingly.

"My cousin's proposal for your daughter's hand is—accepted!" Cesare asked, and Varanese, his face hard with hatred, bowed his head.

"We'll risk no trickery, despite your realization of my cousin's great love for your daughter, and of—of here for him," Cesare continued smoothly. "You will come with us now to the Vatican and sign the agreement."

Varanese's head went up dejectedly. He would have leaped forward and dragged Cesare from his horse, to strangle him with bare hands, had he not known that by so doing he would make matters far worse for Adriana. Hopelessly he bowed his head, and followed Cesare and Donati from the courtyard.

Left alone, Adriana stood beating her hands helplessly together, not knowing what she was doing (To be continued)

The address of the afternoon at the Ogle County Farmers and Merchants picnic to be held at Oregon, Sept. 16th, will be given by Hon. Henry R. Rathbone, Representative at Large from Illinois, in Congress. The Ogle county people are fortunate in being given an opportunity of hearing a man of so great ability, and one who is so well posted on the farmers' problems.

The committee of farmers and merchants, representing the Farm Bureau and the Chambers of Commerce in Ogle county at their meeting at the Farm Bureau office have started plans for the annual picnic program similar to that of last year. Sept. 16th, was decided upon as the date for the annual event, coming just a week following the Fair, and at a time, which the committee believes, will not interfere seriously with farming operations.

The merchants of the county are co-operating with the Farm Bureau and are donating premiums to be given at the picnic. Some of these premiums will be placed as awards for the various races, contests and games. Horse shoe pitching and base ball will be features of the sports program. Band music, games and races for the children, and hog calling and chicken calling contests for men and women are, also, included in the program. Free coffee will be furnished on the grounds for the picnic dinner.

Committees have charge of the arrangements as follows:

Committee on Premiums: Oregon, G. S. Wooding; Mt. Morris, R. L. Cretz; Polo, C. D. Rowland; Foreston, J. F. Deuth; Byron, F. A. Nott; Leaf River, John Sprecher; Stillman Valley, Boyd Barrick; Chana, Wm. Hoopes; Monroe, C. W. B. Tyler; Rochelle, Dexter Stocking; Creston, Earl Cleveland; R. G. Coppenhaver.

Committee on Base Ball: L. D. Carmichael, Robt. Sheaff, Harry Baker, Jack Nordman.

Committee on Horseshoe: T. A. Snodgrass, S. D. Lippert.

Committee on Publicity: J. F. Tilton, E. D. Landers, G. C. Terry, Elmer Veltmeier.

Committee on Coffee: Ed. Murnock, H. Lebowich, A. I. Maxwell, E. S. Mumma.

The VANITY CASE

by CAROLYN WELLS

©1926 by G. P. PUTNAM SONS

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MRS. PRENTISS sees lights mysteriously appear and disappear in the HEATH household next door one night, and the next day Harbor Gardens, Long Island, is agog with the murder of MYRA HEATH and the disappearance of her husband, HEATH.

House guests of the Heaths are LAWRENCE INMAN, heir to Myra's fortune, and BUNNY MOORE, vivacious, golden-haired, to whom suspicion points because of her refusal to answer questions.

Myra Heath was peculiar. She never used cosmetics, never wore colors. She had a mania for collecting glass, and it was a rare old whisky bottle from her collection that the quavering maid to kill her. Candles were burning at her head and feet and nearby was a card marked, "The Work of Perry Heath." Strange as all, she was heavily made up with rouge.

The peculiar thing about Heath's disappearance is that all the windows and doors had been locked on the inside the night before and were found that way in the morning. Finger prints of Bunny Moore and Inman were found on the bottle.

At the Country Club, the murder is discussed by SAM ANDERSON, Heath's rival for the club presidency; AL CUNNINGHAM, HAM, who is trying to solve the crime, and others. Some believe Heath the murderer. Anderson disagrees. TODD HUNTER BUCK, nephew of Mrs. Prentiss and in love with Bunny, suggests to Cunningham that Heath also may have been murdered.

EMMA, a waitress in the Heath home, tells of seeing Bunny ascend the stairs about the time of the murder, carrying her vanity case. Later Bunny is amazed to get a phone call from Perry Heath advising her to keep silent.

Detective Mott puts Bunny under a grilling, accuses her of the crime and she faints.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXVI

TODD HUNTER BUCK sprang to catch her, his own lips white and quivering with fury.

"How dare you?" he cried, "no police authority gives you a right to frighten a young lady like that!"

"Don't show contempt for the law, or interfere with its processes, Mr. Buck," Mott said, sternly, in no wise disconcerted by Tod's outburst.

It was at this moment that Al Cunningham arrived.

He looked curiously at the little group.

Bunny, whose faintness had been merely momentary, was clinging to Buck's arm, her face drawn with fear and terror, her whole frame trembling with nervous excitement.

Inman was apparently dazed—his hands moved twitchingly and he was looking wildly about, but was seemingly unable to speak.

Mott was stern, implacable, like an avenging instrument of the law, and Todhunter Buck was trying to control himself, and master the situation.

Seizing a good chance, as Cunningham's entrance made a slight diversion, Buck whispered to Bunny, "Come on!" and without further ceremony, he led her swiftly through one of the open French windows, across the terrace, and over across the lawn to his aunt's house.

"My dear child!" said that good lady, as she took the distressed girl in her arms, "what have they been doing to you?"

"They've been persecuting her, Aunt Emily," the nephew declared.

Many attended the funeral in Dixon Monday of Mrs. B. F. Lane whose sudden death came as a distinct shock and grief to her numerous friends in this locality, where she had made her home the greater part of her life, and she will be sincerely missed. She was laid to rest in Woodside cemetery here, amid a profusion of beautiful flowers.

Albert Gale is home from Detroit, Mich., to visit his mother, Mrs. Orlo Gale.

Messrs. G. M. Finch, W. D. Scott, Earl Carlson, D. M. and Little

hotly. "That man Mott is a brute! a beast! I wouldn't have minded if he had asked Bunny questions, if he had been courteous about it I wouldn't have minded even his accusations, if he had shown a decent consideration for her. But he banged his talk like a sledge hammer, and he glowered at the poor little thing like a demon of wrath—oh, he was horrible!"

By reason of Toddy's valiant indignation and Mrs. Prentiss' cooling endearments, Bunny began to revive her drooping spirits, and recover her poise.

"You are both so good to me!" she exclaimed, "it sort of makes up for that awful man's treatment of me. How could he say I would—do—do that to Myra? Oh, Mrs. Prentiss, who did do it? Who killed her? And who could touch up her face after she was dead? Perry couldn't do that! I'm sure he couldn't. I couldn't—and Larry couldn't—"

"What about the servants?" Mrs. Prentiss was secretly devoured with curiosity.

"It's too absurd to imagine Her- rick doing that, and none of the others was about—"

"Emma," suggested Mrs. Prentiss. "Oh, Emma, she couldn't use a lipstick as that one was used!"

"Her husband could have done it," put in Tod.

"Oh, no!" Bunny looked agonized. "They were not entirely congenial, but he never would kill her!"

"But didn't he often urge her to use color on her face?" persisted Mrs. Prentiss, still curious.

"Yes, we all did. We coaxed her to try it now and then. But nobody could make Myra do anything she didn't want to do."

"Did Carter, her maid, want her to use make-up?" said Toddy, suddenly.

"Oh, yes, but she had stopped asking Myra to do so. Myra had scolded her too often for suggesting it."

"I'll bet she's the murderer, then," said Buck, thoughtfully. "She had opportunity, in the sense that anyone in the house had opportunity. She had motive if, as I've heard, Mrs. Heath left her a sum of money in her will. And if she did kill her mistress, she's the only one in the house who could apply that careful make-up, and who would have the callousness, the heartlessness to do it. Why, if you or Mr. Inman or Mr. Heath had killed the lady, not one of you could have been so devoid of common human feeling as to put on that make-up!"

Bunny gave him a grateful glance. "Of course we couldn't!" she exclaimed. "And though it seems too dreadful to suspect Carter, yet—well, she is a mysterious sort of woman—"

"How?" eagerly inquired Mrs. Prentiss.

"Oh, nobody knows anything about her early life, where she came from and all that. Then, she has a fearful temper—Myra discharged her three times for impudence and tantrums."

"It was certainly a crime of passion," Buck said, musingly. "You see, Mrs. Heath, for some reason, went down to the studio late at night. Then somebody came to her there, and had—must have had a discussion with her, that became a quarrel, a desperate quarrel, and resulted in the person, whoever it may have been, impulsively grabbing up that bottle and lashing Mrs. Heath on the temple. When the poor lady died, the heartless, soulless murderer, proceeded to make up that dead face, to see how she would look. And, you see, Bunny, they used your vanity case. That is pretty well proved, too, I think. Now, how did that vanity case get back in your room?"

"Though Buck spoke casually, Bunny looked up at him quickly to see if he were laying a trap for her. But if so, he got small satisfaction.

"Look here, Mott," Larry burst forth, "I will not sit here and hear that child maligning without a word of protest. Miss Moore is absolutely incapable of such a thing as murder!"

"Don't be absurd, Mr. Inman," Mott's tones were icy, relentless. "Just because a woman is young and pretty, she can't be put outside the pale of suspicion. Miss Moore's finger-prints are on the bottle, under your own. Miss Moore's vanity case was used, also her crimson scarf. Miss Moore was seen going upstairs with that vanity case in her hand after the time the murder is assumed by the medical men to have been committed. Miss Moore was found crying wildly in bed the next morning, when the servant came to tell her of the tragedy. She already knew it! I have checked up all my facts, I have sifted all the evidence, and I find that vanity case in her hand, no loophole of escape from my convictions. I, too, am amazed at such a crime at the hands of such a young and beautiful girl."

"Your arguments are not without truth and justice, Mr. Mott," Cunningham said, very seriously. "And it does seem that you have evidence, of a sort, against Miss Moore. Are you going to arrest her?"

"Not immediately. But she is under surveillance, and an attempt to leave Gaybrook Harbor would, of course, result in her detention. But we have reason to believe she has knowledge of Mr. Heath's movements, and he is lying low against the time when she can get away and join him. Then they will both disappear and never be heard of again."

"You know this?" asked Cunningham, gravely.

"Not by actual proof, but by the strongest implications. And here comes my messenger now, with word of Heath's present whereabouts."

Mott unfolded a note brought him by a boy, and with a brief ejaculation of annoyance, he declared:

"Well, I suspected as much! When Heath telephoned Mr. Mott this morning, he was in New York, in a pay station."

Ambassador to Mexico

Not Going to Resign
Paul Smith's, N. Y., Aug. 12—(AP)—Reports that James R. Sheffield is going to resign as ambassador to Mexico are without foundation, Secretary Kellogg of the state department said here today.

Informally but emphatically, Mr. Kellogg made his statement as a result of some press dispatches which have intimated that Mr. Sheffield would resign because of a belief that the attitude of the state department in its controversy with the Mexican foreign office over the oil and land laws of Mexico should be stiffened. Mr. Sheffield is enroute to the United States for a vacation and a report in person to Washington. He is to be received by Mr. Kellogg Wednesday and later is expected to be a guest of President Coolidge.

More Warrants Coming in

Probe of Editor's Death
Canton, O., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Following the grilling in Cleveland of Louis Maza, charged with the murder of Don R. Mellott, Canton publisher, and the arrest of Norman Clark, Canton attorney, on charges of conspiracy to violate the federal prohibition act, the next link in the murder investigation will be the issuance of warrants against Ben Rudner of Massillon, Ohio, and Patrick E. McDermott of Nanty Glo, Pennsylvania. Investigators did not reveal what the warrants charged, but it was learned they both will constitute tactical moves to uncover the murder plot and the liquor conspiracy.

Two Convicts Returned to State Prison Yesterday

Chicago, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Two former inmates of the state prison were taken back to the Joliet institution from Chicago today. One is Thomas Sullivan, alias Ivers who created a stir yesterday with announcement that he would confess an "amazing plot" at the Cook county jail. The confession was regarded as of doubtful value by officials and he was hurried back to the penitentiary to finish an 18 year sentence for murder, which was interrupted by his escape. The other returned prisoner is Joseph Bels, alias Moran, alias Joseph F. Roman, one of five men who escaped the Cook county jail in 1918 and sought lately for violation of a parole which freed him from the penitentiary last fall.
